Subject: Meeting at Bordeaux for Young Scientists - ITQB-INTERBIO initiative
Importance: High

Dear (younger) colleagues,

I draw your attention to the "Young Scientists Days - Chemistry-Biology-Physics interface meeting" that will take place in Bordeaux (FR) at the European Institute of Chemistry and Biochemistry, May 27-28, 2010 (<http://www.iecb.u-bordeaux.fr/iic/index.php>)

The conference focuses on the cooperation and integration of three separate disciplines: physics, chemistry and biology. It is an event that was created and is yearly organised by PhD and post-doctoral fellows from IECB and directed to young researchers from the Greater European South-West. There are opportunities for oral and poster presentations, and for networking. English will be the official language.

In the framework of project INTERBIO (<http://www.itqb.unl.pt/about-us/institutional-relationships/interbio>) for southwest European cooperation in which ITQB is involved we would like to invite interested participants from ITQB (PhD students and PostDocs) to participate as we may provide financial support to selected participants.

This is your opportunity to represent your institution and to promote our research activity: Don't miss it !

Cláudio Gomes
Interbio Scientific Committee

PS: Potential candidates should express their interest up to next Friday - 30th April by replying to this e-mail.
